

Dempsey Will Hold Crown Long Time Say Experts

By H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 16.—Many an argument over the ability of Jack Dempsey has taken place since he has first matched to meet Jess Willard for the world's title. Lots of experts could see that Dempsey was in for an early licking at the hands of the giant Jess, and they failed to admit conversion to the side of the new champion after the battle.

Such men as Jack Shelly, Jack McAuliffe, and others of the old past in fight-affairs have declared there never was a fighter like Dempsey and that is the belief of the writer.

I never saw John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, or Bob Fitzsimmons fight, but the very invincibility of Dempsey makes it quite improbable that he will have to surrender his title within ten years—always providing, of course, that he takes proper care of himself.

Many a champion has gone with the flowing bowl and the things that go with it. Rarely has there been a champion strong enough to resist the luxuries that are available to a man with plenty of money. They ruined John L. Sullivan, Ad Wolgast and many others. They will ruin Dempsey unless he pays attention to his condition at all times.

And that is the reason for confidence in Dempsey. He has always proven strong enough for any emergency. Doubtless he will find himself able to carry himself through this hard fight against temptation.

Jack McAuliffe declared after seeing the young tornado drop Willard time after time, while winning the championship, that he never had seen a puncher the equal of Dempsey. He compared him with Fitzsimmons and all the old champions he loved so well, and did not find the new champion wanting.

"He hits like Sullivan and McGovern," said McAuliffe. "He never will be beaten so long as he pays attention to his condition. He should be champion ten or twelve years and then retire undefeated."

There isn't a challenger worthy of the name for Dempsey right now. There is Willie Meehan, who holds a decision over Dempsey in a four-round go, but Dempsey would make mince-meat of that chap. Joe Beckett is little known on this side, but it is doubtful if he would have a chance. Billy Miske practically admits he doesn't care for a championship held by Dempsey.

It is quite probable Beckett will have a chance with the champion, for he is picked to defeat Carpentier, and thus arouse interest in a title combat.

ICE CREAM SUPPER AT PINOBA

There will be an ice cream supper at this place Saturday night, July 19th, for the purpose of painting the house. Every one is invited to come and have a good time, beginning at 4 p. m., and continuing until 10 o'clock. There will be a fat man's race promptly at 4 o'clock. There will be singing and other entertainment. Come, and be sociable.

ROUTE THIRTEEN

Quite a crowd attended church at St. James Sunday. There were many, perhaps, who could have attended, who did not.

Mrs. Neppie Renner, better known as Old Aunt Nep, and Mrs. N. W. Timmons spent last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Neas, at Caney Branch.

Mrs. Carl Tranthom is reported to be real sick now. Drs. Neas and Bell are the attending physicians.

Mr. Jesse Neas and wife spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. Dolph Love. They also attended church at St. James Sunday.

With much regret we report Mrs. Thomas Ottinger not improving as her many friends wish that she might.

Misses Esther and Ruth Critselous, of Long Creek, spent the latter part of last week, with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Ottinger.

A Mrs. Swartzell, from near Warrensburg, is visiting in this community at present. She called at the home of N. W. Timmons Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Bill Critselous and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wallen Massey and wife were visitors in your city Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. J. Mose Neas and son, Erban, daughter, Cora, and your scribe were shopping in Newport last Saturday.

Among those who attended the ice cream supper at the Link Park Saturday night from here, were: Misses Esther and Ruth Critselous, Bonnie and Derilla Timmons; Messrs. Arville, Guay and Zear Neas, Mr. Lawrence Neas, John S. Critselous and Mr. Don Cutchall. They reported a nice time and a very large attendance.

The hum of the thresher can now be heard in this community.

This community would be very thankful for another refreshing rain, which is very badly needed by growing vegetation.

Mr. John S. Critselous, who has been stationed at Camp Morris, Va. since his arrival from overseas service, is now with his mother at Caney Branch. John looks well and his return home will be a great delight to his many friends as well as to himself. He has been in the service some four years.

I am quite sure the readers of the Daily Sun read the nice, interesting letter which corporal Ross Ottinger wrote the editor of the Sun. Ross was a perfect model for others to follow as a Christian. He was liked and admired by all who knew him. He was always ready and anxious to do the right thing. His country called him and he left his work to answer the call. He was one of the young men who left Greenville for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., on the 23rd of June, one year ago. His many friends wish him an early sail to the United States.

There will be a Sunday school convention at Meadow Creek Church on the fourth Sunday of this month, in the afternoon. It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance. Come everybody and bring two or three somebody's with you.

Derrilla Timmons and your scribe motored to the power dam Sunday. They called on their cousins, the Misses Humphreys in the afternoon.

OLD BLUE EYES.

THE SUMMER GOSSIP

By Sophia Irene Loeb
All hail! They are with us once more—the summer porch brigade and the whispering gossip.

Like the brook they go on forever. But fast, very fast, their wagging tongues are losing the sting.

A very interesting incident has come to my notice.

A young woman was away at a little summer resort for her vacation. She is an orphan and works very hard, having made her way in the world for many years.

She went with a girl friend to spend the few recreation days that are allotted to her in the year.

Now, there were three women at this hotel whose one joy in life was to get together on a corner of the veranda and whisper bitter nothings about other people.

When these two girls came, unchaperoned, these women were "shocked," and the girls became the target of their trouble-making tongues.

If their gossiping had only extended to the three it would not have mattered so much, but their "casual remarks" was spread to other acquaintances in the place.

After the girls had been there a few days, one moonlight Thursday they came in a little late from a drive. It happened their companions were a brother of one of the girls and a friend—a perfectly harmless party.

One of the gossipers happened to be sitting up when they arrived. And as the young men were strangers, they left and returned to town.

The gossipers made a mountain out of a mole-hill and even went so far as to speak to the hotel proprietor about it and threatened to leave if "such conduct" was allowed in this hotel.

The proprietor who happened to know all about the girls, spoke to the woman gossip something like this:

"These young ladies are guests of this hotel and they should be treated with the respect that is due them."

"I hope they will have the best time of their lives. While you and your partners are wasting your lives in idleness, these girls are out helping in the world's work."

"They are making an honest living and these vacation days are worth their weight in gold to them. It behooves you and me to help them rather than hurt them."

"Now I am sick to death of people who have nothing better to do in life than to find fault with others, especially during the hot season when they are away from the grind to get a little pleasure."

"I wish you three women to pack your trunks and go somewhere else. This is no place for gossipers."

The result of this was that the three women had to go, and the reason of their leaving sifted through the place and everybody knew about it.

If only more people would take it upon themselves to act as this good man has done, what a lot of misery would be saved!

At any rate the day of the low, slanderous tongue is passing. People are getting a broader vision of things. They do not take the tale of the tattler to heart.

Faster than we think is the Golden Rule spirit sinking in.

When listening to an unkind story it is so easy to reason, "If this person talks this way about another, won't this same person be ready to say something about me?"

It is the truth.

DISCOVERY TO COME LATER

"I thought you said this bathing suit was in fast colors," said Binks, indignantly, to the hosiery of whom he had bought his suit that morning.

"Yes, sir, that's what I said," returned the hosiery.

"Well, every wretched stripe on the thing has come off on my back," retorted Binks.

"Ah, but wait until you try to get 'em off your back," smiled the hosiery, suavely. "Then you'll see."—Tit-Bits.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. It is harmless and never irritates.

BECOMES RESPONSIBLE RIGHT NOW.

Young fellow, haven't you been going on long enough without taking any responsibility?

Would you not be much better off today had you assumed an indebtedness for the purchase of property?

You say your limited means prevent, but you have seen opportunities, which are worth much more now than they were when you noted them, and the other fellow is the gainer because he tackled the opportunity.

You spend more than he does, and you have less, and you will live to regret your short-sightedness.

Later, when you want to get married, and have only a few dollars ahead, the added expense will mean much self-denial to yourself as well as working an injustice to the fine woman you wish to wed.
